German Artillery Hammers Away At Western Approaches To Moscow

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—While German artillery hammered the western approaches of Moscow, Nazi panzer scouting forces moved into the outlying industrial areas around the Soviet capital today, according to military authorities in Berlin.

At the same time, they said, armies of no less than 1,000,000 German soldiers converged closer around Moscow from three directions to "paralyze the city as the seat of the Soviet regime."

Panzer scouts and luftwaffe observers reported to Berlin that Moscow already is in the throes of its "last desperate defense measures."

German authorities claimed deep panzer thrusts southwest of Moscow bagged some industrial plants and partially crippled Moscow's light and water supplies.

Petroleum Workers Will Be Organized

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 18.—Complete organization of all petroleum workers in the country "will be the object of our next big drive," was a thought left today with delegates to the Ohio CIO council by Allan Haywood, national director of the CIO.

"We had started to make overtures a year ago but we were held up because of controversies arising in the automobile and steel industry," Haywood said. "We're ready to go again, however, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is the next man we're going to hit."

Expect Senate To Rush Measure To Arm Ships

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Flushed by a decisive House victory, some Senate administration supporters today proposed that the bill for arming of merchant ships be reported out by the foreign relations committee without hearings and rushed through the Senate in record time.

Declaring that the torpedoing of the U. S. destroyer Kearney and the Japanese situation has "taken the heart out of the opposition," Senator Guffey (D.) Pa., member of the foreign relations committee, said that he would propose abandonment of hearings.

The bill, which was passed by the House by a vote of 259 to 138, will be considered by the foreign relations committee on Monday. A decision on the question of hearings will be made.

"I don't think hearings are needed after what has happened in the last 36 hours," said Guffey. "The incidents have taken the heart out of the opposition.

"The bill will be passed by the Senate promptly. There won't be any filibuster—if they did, the country would turn on them."

Senator Wheeler (D.) Mont., foe of the bill, reiterated his opposition to a filibuster. He said that Senate debate could be concluded in a week.

"It would be more honest to ask for a declaration of war," he said. "If it were voted, of course everyone would get behind the war effort."

Senator Bridges (R) N. H., said that he "hoped" the Republican Senate vote for the administration would be swelled on the bill.

Hatch Act Clips Bureau Manager

Ohio Bureau Manager Found Guilty Of Participating In Political Campaign

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The United States Civil Service Commission today found that Harry J. Patterson, manager of the Cincinnati office of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, had violated the Hatch Act by taking an active part in a political campaign and that such violation warrants "his removal from employment."

At the same time the commission said that Flora Weber, an employe of the Cincinnati office, also had violated the Hatch Act by serving as an election officer but that in view of "mitigating circumstances" she need not "forfeit her position."

The report said that "Mr. Patterson's activities in connection with political contributions by employes of the bureau amounted to coercion within the meaning of the statute" and also that he used "his political authority and influence for the purpose of affecting the result of the general election held on November 5."

The commission said that Patterson advised employes under his jurisdiction and supervision to "contribute funds to a political party" and that he took an active part in the campaign.

The stickers are for use in homes and automobiles.

To Double Output Of 'Jeep' Trucks

Ford And Wilys Companies To Join In Production Of Small Trucks

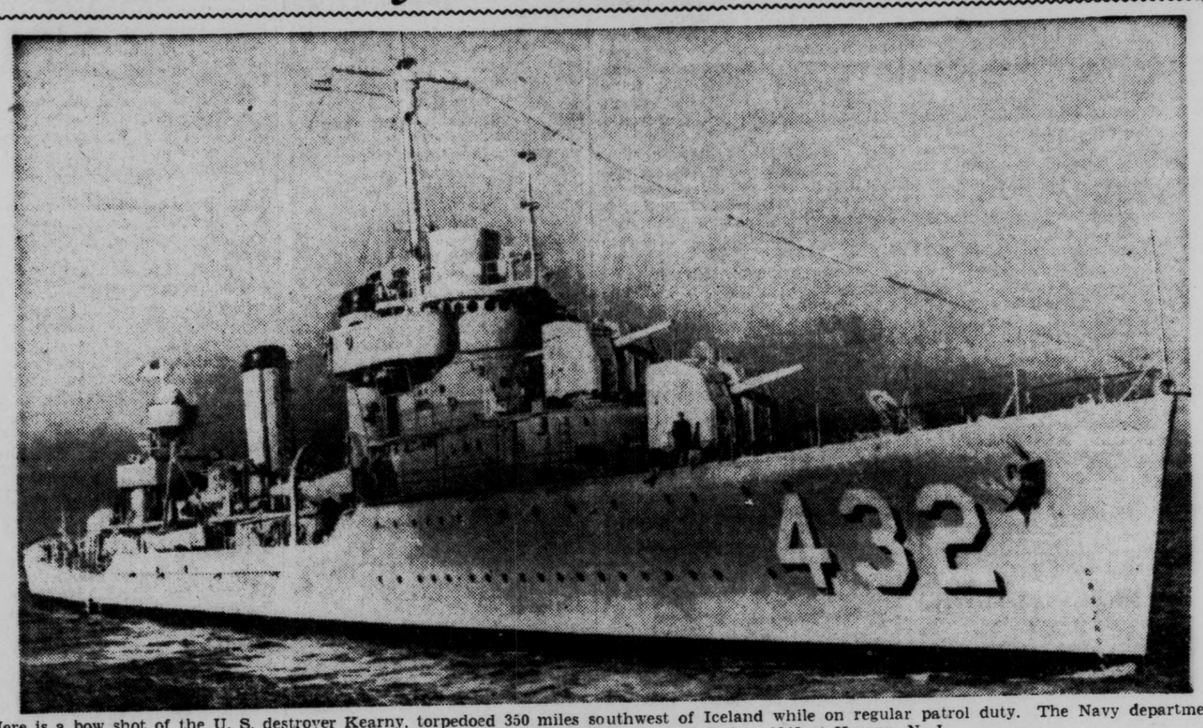

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—In a move to double the production of the army's "jeep" trucks, the War Department today announced that the Ford Motor Co. and the Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., of Toledo, will join in turning out this type of vehicle.

The agreement between the two companies, the first of its kind to be negotiated by two American auto manufacturers since the World War, provides that the Ford company will make available the huge facilities of its River Rouge plant at Dearborn, Mich., for the production of a vehicle identical to the model now being manufactured by Willys. The latter company will furnish complete drawings, licenses, patents and other manufacturing information without cost.

Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson explained that the agreement will provide the army with duplicate sources for this important type of truck and eliminate the usual handicaps of two sets of spare parts and maintenance equipment which would be present if two different models were being manufactured.

U. S. Destroyer Attacked Off Iceland

Here is a bow shot of the U. S. destroyer Kearny, torpedoed 350 miles southwest of Iceland while on regular patrol duty. The Navy department announced there was no loss of personnel aboard the 1,630-ton ship, which was launched in 1940 at Kearny, N. J.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The navy department today reported "nothing new" in the torpedoing of the American destroyer Kearny off Iceland as other United States warships presumably swept the north Atlantic in a grim search for the raider which tried but failed to sink the fighting ship.

Meanwhile, the crippled 1,650-ton Kearny limped toward an undisclosed port for repairs under its own power, apparently with no casualties among its crew of 180.

Lack of further information about the incident was attributed by some officials to the fact that the commander of the destroyer was using

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Japan has informed the United States government that it wishes to continue the exploratory talks for an understanding in the Pacific despite the change of government in Tokyo.

Assurances to this effect were brought to the state department late last evening by the Japanese minister, Kaname Wakasugi, who is now handling the talks for the Japanese embassy in Washington. Wakasugi indicated that the assurances were given with the knowledge of the new Japanese premier, Gen. Hideki Tojo.

Wakasugi conferred for over an hour with Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles. Later, he conferred briefly with Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Officials were gratified at the assurances that Japan intended to continue the talks but it did not increase optimis mover prospects of a general settlement.

The view prevails that the Nippon emire wants to keep the talks going so that the way may still be open for reapproachment with this country if the plans for closer collaboration with the Axis should go astray.

However, relations of Shigenori Togo former Japanese ambassador to Berlin, as new foreign minister strengthened the belief of officials that the Nippon empire is moving to tighten its ties with the Axis as a result of the German victories in Russia.

May Include Reds In Lease-Lend Aid Washington Says

Russian Moneys Exhausted, Loan Dwindled, Uncle Sam May Help

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Faced with a serious Far Eastern situation and the fact that Russia's midland defenses are crumbling, Washington officials said today that a decision by the government is imminent on whether to include the Soviet Union in the lend-lease program.

Money Gone

Commerce department experts say that Russia has exhausted her $40,000,000 in cash and gold in this country, that $40,000,000 additional which this government advanced is dwindling rapidly, and that although another $20,000,000 loan is being negotiated, it will not finance Soviet needs on a scale considered necessary.

The return today of W. Averell Harriman and William Batt from Moscow where they represented this government at the conference on Soviet war needs, will speed the decision on whether to start pouring lend-lease billions into the Soviet cause, in the opinion of Washington officials.

They also believe that the next few days will probably disclose the real intentions of the new Japanese government toward Vladivostok, the key Russian port on the Pacific, through which most of the American aid has been channeled to date.

Steinhardt Stays

Likewise, it is considered significant that the American ambassador

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Oct. 18.—Lt. Gov. and Mrs. C. Elmer Anderson were critically injured today when their automobile skidded off the highway near Little Falls.

The Andersons were driving from their home at Brainerd to Minneapolis to attend the Minnesota-Pittsburgh football game this afternoon. Authorities said their automobile skidded off the pavement, slippery from rain, struck the shoulder of the highway, and turned over several times.

FIERCE FIGHTING RAGES ON FRONT

Russians Report Seaport Of Odessa Evacuated In "Perfect Order"

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Oct. 18.—Russia's high command today announced new set-backs for the German invaders on the Moscow front and claimed the Russian evacuation of the Black Sea port of Odessa had been conducted in "perfect order."

Savage fighting still raged on the broad plains west of Moscow as massed Russian armies battled furiously to stem the constantly growing pressure of German mechanized forces there.

A new war communique issued at noon said:

"Fighting continued on the entire front throughout the night. It was particularly fierce in the western direction."

Attacks Beaten Off

But the high command in its midnight communique declared that on the central front facing the menaced capital the Red army "beat off several fierce enemy attacks."

Seriousness of the situation nevertheless was emphasized by a Moscow radio announcer, who stated in a broadcast:

"Moscow is watchful and stern.

Or else a rainstorm pops right up and smacks him plop athwart the eye, the rain it seems is close to him, and rarely does he choose it dry. So if you need some rain my friend and weather is quite dry and fine, just call him to arrange a trip, the day is wet and fifty nine.

Says Britain's Real Test Only Starting

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 18. — Declaring that "our real test of strength and endurance is only now about to commence," Lord Croft, under-secretary of state for war, today declared that Britain will support Russia in defense of the vital oil-bearing Caucasus and revealed that total British casualties in the war to date, including prisoners, were 127,000.

"The German armies in Russia have advanced to a depth of 400 miles over a 1,400-mile front, and will almost certainly drive on Batum and Baku," he said.

"The Iranian frontier is vital to us in supporting the Russian defense of Baku and denying the Germans an open road into Egypt, India and the Far East."

Bases Established

(An International News Service dispatch from Cairo revealed that General Sir Archibald Wavell, British commander in chief in India, already has established a series of bases in northern Iran and Iraq to combat any German drive from the sea of Azov into the Caucasus.)

Meanwhile, Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin declared that "things are really desperate."

Taking an extremely grave view of the situation, he predicted that Germany is planning a spring invasion of England.

"We have a terrible task facing us," he said. "Hitler has succeeded in wiping out the productive capacity of a large part of Soviet Russia . . .

"Things look extremely serious in the Far East . . .

"We know that Germany is putting everything she can into production in order to be ready for us in the spring."

G.O.P. Leader Makes Plea For Unity

Urges Support For President

Pennsylvania Leader Declares U. S. Is Already "In Effect At War"

NATIONAL UNITY MUST BE PRESERVED

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Oct. 18.—The Republican party today was asked to give its full support to President Roosevelt's foreign policy in a plea for national unity made by Joseph N. Pew, Jr., Pennsylvania G.O.P. leader and bitter anti-New Dealer.

In a surprise address last night before the state convention of the Young Republicans of Pennsylvania, the powerful state leader, in his first public pronouncement since the 1940 election campaign, bitterly attacked both the President and Wendell L. Willkie, former Republican presidential nominee, but added:

Must Achieve Unity

"We must achieve unity or perish. Personally, I cannot stand with either group of extremists, those who urge that we get into the war at any cost, or those who would have us keep out of war at any cost . . . nevertheless, however lacking in common purpose and unifying conviction, we are in effect at war."

"We have come pretty definitely to realize," continued the Philadelphia oil company executive, "that while under our constitution only Congress can declare war, the administration can bring about a state of war, and Congress can only reaffirm what has already happened. Moreover, it seems likely to be a long and bitter war, with victory possibly only after years of suffering, hardship and travail.

Must Be In Accord

"So, plainly, men and women and political parties from now on must be judged in accordance with their contribution to the national defense. National defense can be built up only through national unity, and national unity can be achieved only by restoration of basic loyalties and simple intellectual honesty."

There are "dark days ahead," warned the unofficial but recognized head of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, and it was for this reason, he explained, that he had broken the "quiet of the past 12 months, in which I said nothing, but worked and studied." World events have reached the point, he stated, "where it is obvious that our country is in dire peril and yet woefully indifferent."

MILLION NAZIS CONVERGING ON MOSCOW, CLAIM

saisk, where they apparently pierced the Soviet lines, and are now assaulting a still heavier belt of Russian forts.

Another panzer unit was reported stabbing northwest to join hands with the Nazi forces moving east from Kalinin, in a maneuver designed to close the wide Russian avenue of escape and begin the siege of Moscow.

The luftwaffe also was declared to be pounding Moscow's approaches as well as those of Leningrad without cessation.

They said intense activity is progressing on the outer limits of the city, where hasty barricades and mine defenses are being established.

Meanwhile, Berlin authorities insisted the powerful Moscow radio station "seems to have gone silent." They said only a local broadcasting station was directing the population and "summoning the people, children included" for all-out resistance against the invaders.

"Mixed" Defense

The number of regular Red Army troops inside the Moscow defense belt is not yet clear to the Germans, but authorities said fighting now going on outside Moscow shows that the defenders are "mixed"—that is, a combination of soldiers and civilians.

From this, they said, German officials have concluded that able-bodied Russians are abandoning factories and shops and hastening to the front.

High explosives shells and luftwaffe bombs were declared to be raising huge clouds of smoke over Moscow's periphery, but the German high command held back exact details of the military situation.

In addition, German authorities declared, the Russian government—or at least most of it—already has "decamped to avoid an embarrassing situation."

But it was believed in Berlin that Premier Josef Stalin will wait until the "eleventh hour in an effort to maintain morale—then fly to Kazan at night."

The high command war communique gave little information on the last fighting in Russia, stating merely:

"Operations in the east are progressing according to plan.

"Luftwaffe planes bombed the port facilities of Murmansk and war-important establishments in and around Moscow. Last night attacks by the air force also were directed against Moscow and supply facilities at Leningrad."

FDR ORDERS PROBE OF WATER SUPPLY IN PHILADELPHIA

terials, we welcome its assistance," said Mayor Samuel. Building and improvement on a new sewage system would cost $42,000,000, other sources revealed.

Pommer nevertheless hinted that Mr. Roosevelt's letter to Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt ordering the investigation was politically inspired. "It seems very unfortunate," he said, "that the President would see fit to inject himself into a local political campaign at this stage of the game."

John B. Kelly, national director of physical training, declared the President was "absolutely right," and remarked that the Chief Executive "may have got a whiff of the Schuylkill river" while passing through Philadelphia.

State Senators H. Jerome Jaspan and Anthony J. Di Silvestro asserted that if a special session of the state legislature were called, they would demand that this city's water and sewage problem be named as a purpose of the session.

Private flying experienced a remarkable growth in the United States during the last year. On Jan. 1, 1941, 63,113 individuals held pilot certificates against 31,264 a year ago—a gain of 101.9 per cent.

MOSCOW CLAIMS NAZI INVADERS GIVEN SET-BACK

The enemy at the gates shall not be allowed to enter our beautiful city.

"Today west of Moscow mighty columns of tanks are moving along the highways. Fighting men of all arms are marching.

"The sons of Russia—men of the Soviet land—have risen like a steel wall in defense of the sacred city.

"The bloody waves of Hitler's barbarous invasion will break against this steel wall."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: With the diplomatic corps and most of the Russian government already out of Moscow, the London Daily Telegraph said today that it was more probable the new seat of the Russian government would be Samara than Kazan.

Claim New Gaps

(Berlin claimed three huge German armies were slashing new gaps in Moscow's outer defenses despite snow, rain, sleet and mud.

(But Nazi military sources admitted Russian counter-attacks were being hurled at the German lines and indicated the German forces would attempt to encircle Moscow rather than take it by direct frontal assault.

(A Bucharest report reached Vichy stating fighting is still progressing in the principal streets of Odessa and that Rumanian planes are bombing the port in an attempt to prevent the Soviets from escaping.

(This report described Odessa as a heap of ruins "owing to the Russian scorched earth tactics.")

Odessa Evacuated

The Soviet midnight communique said evacuation of Odessa had been completed in time and in "perfect order" and that the troops had been transferred to another sector of the front by sea.

Fighting continued on the entire front, the war bullet said, and was especially stubborn on the western central sector, "where the Red army beat off several fierce enemy attacks."

According to the communique the evacuation of Odessa had been organized during the past eight days and was carried out successfully The bulletin said:

"Our troops, having fulfilled their task at the Odessa area, were transferred by our fleet to other sectors of the front in a perfectly orderly manner without losses."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Although the sector to which the troops were taken was not specified, British military circles expressed the view they probably were sent to the Crimea to reinforce the garrison at the Sevastopol naval base.)

with powers for direction of the nation towards peace or war."

Significantly assuming broad powers for himself, Tojo personally took the important war and home ministry portfolios.

He thus took charge of the offices from which Japan's war effort would be directed on the fighting and home fronts.

"War Cabinet"

The general opinion of Japanese authorities was that Tojo has formed a "war cabinet.' Retention of four civilians who served on the Konoye ministry was regarded as a "matter of expediency rather than of policy."

At the same time the military rank of Tojo, who served as war minister in the Konoye government, was raised. The premier was promoted to the rank of full general. Previously he was a Lieutenant General.

Members of the new government were scheduled to meet this afternoon after their investiture in office by Emperor Hirohito.

It was expected a declaration of policy—of momentous imortance at the moment of far eastern crisis—will be made later.

Situation Tense

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Intensity of the far eastern crisis was reflected in newspaper comment outside Japan. One newspaer, the Daily Telegraph of Sydney, Australia, said in an editorial:

("Japans tub-thumbers and bloodgory swashbucklers have been hesitating for months on the edge of war. Now German agents are egging them on...

("They should be disillusioned immediately—with the United States takin the lead.")

Before announcing the new cabinet Tojo conferred all night with candidates.

Shigenori Togo, former Japanese ambassador to Berlin, was named foreign minister--a choice that many Japanese quarters regarded as a guarantee of close Japanese cooperation with Germany and Italy under the fracework of the tripartite Axis pact.

Tokyo, Oct. 18.—Premeir Gen. Hideki Tojo whipped together a new "cabinet of action' 'today and announced Japan will continue to seek "settlement of the China incident" and creation of a "prosperity sphere in East Asia."

Tojo said the present far eastern crisis can be overcome by "speedy execution of suitable measures."

The new premier issued his declaration of policy after the new "war cabinet" held its first meeting. The declaration was broadcast to the nation.

NAVY HUNTS FOR SUB IN ATTACK ON DESTROYER

his radio as little as possible to hide the position of the ship from other possible raiders while heading toward port for repairs.

The Navy failed to state whether the damaged ship was proceeding to an American ort or to Iceland.

Attacker Probable Sub

Unofficially, Navy men indicated that the raider probably was a submarine, presumably of the Axis, because it was considered unlikely that a surface raider would have escaped without a scratch in an encounter with the Kearny, one of the Navy's newest destroyers. It was also believed unlikely that a torpedo plane would be operating so far at sea, since the attack was reported to have occurred 350 miles south and west of Iceland.

Tnough not described officially, the Atlantic search for the raider was believed to be in progress under President Roosevelt's standing order to "shoot first" at any Axis raider in U. S. defense waters. Following the brief announcement of the torpedoing by the navy, the president stated that the incident occurred in waters designated as vital to the nation's defense.

Washington Electrified

The navy's announcement electrified Washington and added a dramatic touch to passage in the house of a bill that would permit arming of merchant ships. The incident also was expected to have an affect on action on the measure in the senate next week.

On the heels of news of the torpedoing came an admission by the navy that American merchantmen in the Pacific have been ordered to check in immediately in neutral ports as a precautionary measure. Officials said there was "nothing unusual or new" in the procedure, despite the situation existing as a result of the Japanese cabinet shakeup.

While awaiting further details about the Kearny before commenting, naval officials expressed satisfaction that the destroyer was able to survive a torpedo attack. Destroyers are built for speed and do not have the armor to withstand the explosive force of a torpedo.

The attack was the third attempt to sink an American warship. On September 3 a submarine fired two torpedoes at the U. S. S. destroyer Greer off Iceland, but both missed and the ship retaliated with depth charges. It was not known whether the Kearny dropped depth charges during yesterday's attack.

MAY INCLUDE REDS IN LEASE-LEND AID WASHINGTON SAYS

to Russia, Laurence Steinhardt, has been directed to stay on the scene, his latest instructions from Washington having countermanded previous orders for him to return home.

In congress, the right of President Roosevelt to include any nation he sees fit under the lend-lease program has been protected tooth and nail during the past days by administration followers who beat off every attempt in the house to ban Russian participation under the new $6,000,000,000 appropriation.

Additionally, there is a new plan in preparation by high defense officials calling for expansion of this nation's armament production by 100 per cent in the next 18 months at an overall cost estimated at $100,000,000,000. It calls for not only doubled aid to Britain and China, but Russia as well.

Panic Quiets

Compared to the panicky air in some quarters yesterday over the German assault at the gates of Moscow, the installation of the new Japanese government, and the torpedoing of the U. S. Destroyer Kearny, Washington today was in a considerably different frame of mind.

Most encouraging note was to be found in the visit of the Japanese minister to Washington, Kaname Waksugi, to the state department where he informed Secretary of State Hull and Undersecretary Sumner Welles that the new government wishes to continue its exploratory talks for an understanding in the Pacific.

Whether Waksugi spoke with the backing of the new Japanese premier, Gen. Hideki Tojo, was not made clear, but Waksugi is the man who has been entrusted with conduting the talks in Washington during recent weeks.

As to the Kearny incident, many who yesterday believed that it might mean war, were today taking a milder tone, declaring that until a complete report on the attack was received, judgment should be reserved.

Choosing for her matron of honor, Mrs. Paul F. Nealon, a bride of a week ago whom had Mrs. Donegan for her maid of honor, wore a pine tree green velveteen street length dress, similar in style, and matching hat. Her shoulder corsage was of Talisman roses.

DEFENSE INDUSTRY FIRES

THERE are too many fires in American defense industries. It is hard to believe that all of them, or even most of them, are accidental.

The manufacturers are usually sporting enough to attribute them to accidental causes, and it will be readily admitted that factories handling explosives are more subject to fire hazards than others. But the wave of disastrous conflagrations lately, with special emphasis on the big rubber fire in Fall River, Mass., arouse suspicion and alarm.

It cannot be forgotten, in such cases, that war production is crippled, valuable materials are destroyed and the foreign wreckers of civilization are given more time for their deadly operations. Those 30,000 tons of government-owned rubber were more important, right now, than if they were so much gold.

Factory-owners are increasingly careful and local police and federal authorities are doubtless concentrating on this creeping war of sabotage. Every good citizen must co-operate, in the factories and outside.

OHIO PRESIDENTS

Harry Daugherty, dead at 81, who managed President Warren G. Harding's campaign for the Presidency and became Attorney General in his cabinet, possessed an intimate inside knowledge of Ohio's place in national politics following the Civil War which he may have recorded in the book which he left unfinished.

Harding ended an era in which Ohio figured in Presidential politics on a plane comparable to Virginia in the earlier days of the Republic. Chase missed the Presidency as did John Sherman, but Hayes made it, if by a hair. Garfield followed. After his death Presidential fortune turned away from the Buckeye state, but only temporarily.

After its experience with Blaine as a candidate in 1884 and Harrison in 1892, the Republican party called on Ohio once again and won with McKinley. For a second time an assassin's bullet was to change the course of Ohio politics. But, as years go, not for long. In 1908 the Republicans turned to Ohio and chose Taft. Ohio had been out of the White House only seven years when Taft entered it. It had been out of it only eight years when Harding went in.

In a period of forty-four years Ohio supplied five chief executives. The stretch of eighteen years since Harding's death is the longest period Ohio has been out of the White House in sixty-five years.

TO CURB MAIL FRANK ABUSES

A resolution introduced by Senator Wiley of Wisconsin recognizes the gross abuse of the Congressional franking privilege, even if it seems to provide an inadequate curb on that evil. It would require a Congressman to enclose a signed letter in any franked mail sent outside his own state or the District of Columbia.

This would fix the responsibility of a Senator or a Representative and show that he knew the precise use to which his postal frank was being put. But if a single letter would suffice for a bagful of mail he could still lend his frank for avoidance of postage payment by some organization.

The law prohibits lending a Congressional frank or permitting its use "by any committee, organization or association." Yet this law is constantly being broken by members of both houses. The District of Columbia Grand Jury which is investigating Nazi agents' activities has just had before it an interesting and impartial witness.

He is a youthful employee of the House of Representatives postoffice, where he recently handled a dozen mailbags packed with franked matter to be sent out by two propagandist committees. Another witness, an official of one of these organizations, admitted having on hand a ton of franked, blank envelopes which he was allowed to address as he saw fit.

The problem is how to make Congressmen observe the law and confine their use of the franking privilege to its legitimate purpose. Perhaps the publicity some offenders have been receiving will cause them to be more cautious in the future.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

TIME OUT FOR MEDITATION

Not long ago Astronomer Russell of Princeton University told a gathering of scientists that this globe is less generously supplied with hydrogen than are heavenly bodies he could mention, notwithstanding the enormous amount of it that went into making the seven seas and their sundry adjuncts. Still more recently an amateur meteorologist viewed with alarm the allegedly increasing withdrawals of nitrogen from the atmosphere to make explosives, blaming the process for this fall's drought in the East.

Dr. Russell did not even hint that the world's hydrogen rations were insufficient, and, as a matter of fact, the world seems to be getting along all right with what it has. As for the nitrogen, it is a fair guess that, considering the vast quantities of it, the human race could go on making explosives enough to blow itself out of existence without materially changing the makeup of the air. What is more, if nitrogen is an essential agent in the making of rain, the fact seems thus far to have escaped the attention of the general run of meteorologists.

With all due respect, then, it seems that neither utterance need cause great concern. Both may be used as food for thought. What would the human race be, for instance, without hydrogen, of which two atoms are required for each molecule of water? Where would man be without nitrogen to dilute the oxygen of the air, to put a check rein on its power to consume? Where, indeed, without oxygen itself, the very sparker to life?

All such things are taken for granted, just as the liberty of free men is taken for granted by those who enjoy it. Man does not have to guard or fight for the blessings that are his through the beneficent and intricate organization of nature. Yet it is worth taking time out now and then to consider human dependency on so much that is above and beyond man.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP OUTSIDE CLASSROOM

It is safe to say that training in good citizenship at school was never so well done as today. Yet we cannot feel so proud of the citizenship of school children while outside of school.

The students in the modern high school are so well organized that they can not easily get far out of step without being caught and made to feel sorry for non-conformity. But as soon as one leaves the school premises he is not so disciplined by his fellows. Indeed, he may feel entirely free to violate the right of anybody outside of school. Of course, he probably has 100 opportunities to do wrong outside of school to one in school and to do so without being caught and made sorry for the deed.

Citizenship at school does not transfer, as he might expect, outside of school. Indeed, some of the very best citizens at school are the worst citizens outside of school. Even the school premises may fall victim, at night or during vacation, to the vandalism of children who during the day or term were good school citizens.

In the primary grades many teachers are so skilful in directing the children that the rights of one another in this classroom are respected to a very high degree. But here again, this good citizenship at school does not carry over to the home and community as we reasonably might expect.

Even at school, it is possible for children to be good citizens in the classroom and poor citizens elsewhere in the same school building.

Opportunity For Training

Recently, I heard an expert teacher from a primary classroom of one of the best known and influential teacher training centers of the United States tell how she educates the young children in her classroom in bearing responsibilities and respecting the rights of others there. After describing what seemed to me ideal classroom experiences for training in democracy, this expert teacher said it was discovered that bedlam reigned in the cafeteria, presumably among the children who were ideal citizens in their respective classrooms.

I asked her why the good citizenship of the classroom did not transfer to the cafeteria. If it could not go from the classroom to the cafeteria in the same building, how might we expect it to transfer to the streets and highways leading to these children's homes, to the lawns, buildings and stores in the home community and to the homes themselves?

Then I asked her, if in her classroom they talked about conduct in the cafeteria and outside the school.

FINGER PRINTING

The time is rapidly arriving when it will no longer be said that fingerprinting should be universal. It will be. This former prejudices against this infallible method of identification may be expected to disappear altogether. Relatively few people now think of it as implying any stigma, although the plan was originally employed in the main for the identification of criminals. What people are now coming to see is that this is a means of protection of the nation.

A great impetus has come from various measures taken for the national defense. Now we have the report of the American Civil Defense Mission, after its return from a stay of five weeks in England that the finger-printing of the entire population is "deemed necessary" as a means of identification. The mission does not argue the point. They simply present their recommendation as a measure of obvious value. In no other way can there be an absolute guarantee of the identity of individuals.

All federal government employees have been finger-printed. The vicil defense committees of the various states are requiring all who serve as air raid watchers, or who take training for other forms of protective work, to accept finger-printing as a prerequisite for duty. It is coming to be a regular requirement that all employees in munitions plants shall thus be "processed" as a guard against the admission of criminals, and, of course, for use in case of accident.

The perils against which these defense measures are planned are common to the whole people. The records are kept in duplicate in the local community and in Washington, so that a check shall always be available without delay.

CONFESSION

I try to do the best I can,
But fool am I to many.
Of me says many a wiser man
Of sense I haven't any.

The jester with abundant wit
Reviews my conduct sadly
And swears although I joke a bit
I do it rather badly.

My lawyer shakes his head and sighs
At bills in full receipted
And swears in many an enterprise
By sharpsters I've been cheated.

My parson thinks it is too bad
I fail the Scripture's letter,
If but the strength of will I had
I could be so much better.

Although I do the best I can
I say it now in meekness
It seems my friends unto a man
Deplore some inner weakness.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:17. Sun rises tomorrow 6:14.

A judge in New York refused to adjourn court on Columbus Day and said Columbus did not discover America. Bet he will not get the Italian vote if he ever runs again.

Pap used to try and hide his money so mother couldn't find it. Now he's a secret pocket put in his trousers and neither of them can.

And now the gals will have to give up using henna to tint their hair because it is not being imported any more. Bet they did not know some heathens made it.

A boozer doesn't get any more satisfaction out of a club soda than the profanity hound does out of "gracious sakes alive."

PUBLIC PESTS.

A new way of covering an old story has been devised by a midwest daily. Title "Public Pests" the feature is covered with a two-column photo and short cutlines. One such Pest is the purse fumbler who opens her purse at the cashier's cage and finally comes up with a $10 bill to pay for a 15 cent purchase. Other public pests include the one who lounges over adjoining seats at theatres and on street cars; the one who blows smoke into a neighbor's eyes; the driver who sits on his automobile horn and many others.

The Windsors are getting far more attention in this country than they would in England. We just have to kow-tow to royalty.

One cabinet member then another cuts loose with a speech or in an interview that puts this country into the war beyond recall. Naturally, the president does not expect a passion for anonymity from these men. Bet he is wise to all forthcoming remarks.

If the meek inherit the earth we'll get it. Think how many years our people meekly endured the closing of banks and loss of their dough.

A farmer in Germany was sentenced to three weeks in jail for letting weeds grow on his farm. We know a lot of chaps who would be in jail if we had a law like that in this country.

Dorris Dazzle recently attended an affair in honor of a noted writer.

"You have no idea how helpful your last book was to me," Doris gushed.

"Indeed," said the writer politely. "And how did it help you?"

"It taught me to concentrate," Doris said.

"Ah, and what are you concentrating on?" asked the writer.

"Oh, on a whole lot of things," enthused Miss Dazzle.

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

"There is a newcomer in our community whose habit of unfavorably comparing our small town mode of living with the way she lived in New York is getting on our nerves. We like her otherwise and intend to continue to banish her loneliness. But we wish you would give her a gentle hint in your column, which I know she always reads."—E. L.

Answer: Your newcomer is placing herself in a very unfortunate position—one in which, without your generous and forgiving nature, would now deprive her of friends. Popularity is gained by being agreeable, happy and unaffected. People from large towns too frequently take a condescending attitude toward their new neighbors in small towns to which they are forced through circumstances to move. Comparisons are always odious—and especially so when they are uncomplimentary. Perhaps your sophisticated friend might benefit by a few hints from you that your little town cannot compare in importance, population and architecture with New York but that you, nevertheless, find its inhabitants friendly and guileless. Your new neighbor probably has a chip on her shoulder because she was forced to leave her beloved metropolis. After her bitterness wears off, you will perhaps find her very congenial. At any rate, give her a chance to adjust herself.

Question: To settle a dispute, please tell me if guests at a church wedding should stand or remain seated. I think they should stand during the ceremony only.—Wendy.

Answer: Upon their arrival at the church, guests are shown to their proper pews by the ushers. They are seated and remain seated until the organist plays "The Wedding March" and the bridal procession start up the aisle. Then the "audience" should rise and remain standing during the entire ceremony and the recessional, except at Catholic ceremonies where they may be required to kneel. Guests should not leave their pews until the parents of the bride and groom, followed by the guests "within the ribbons" have been escorted to the door.

Question: I am going to be married soon. Should I invite the minister and wife to my reception? I know both of them?—S. C.

Answer: It would, of course, be the courteous thing to do, especially since you know them well.

FROM THE TEENS.

"Hurry up, daughter, we're going to be late."

"Oh, mother, look! Are my stocking seams straight? Just a minute mom, I won't be a sec—I simply won't go if I look like a wreck. Zipper my back, ma—I know you don't mind. And, say, does my hair look right behind? This dress doesn't hang right—leaves a sag. No oomph! I'll say it's an awful rag. Is Johnny dead? (meaning does my slip show). In just one minute mom, I'll be ready to go."

So on, so on—a girl of seventeen thinks her mother is an old has-been. She just fits in and her role is "Wait." She's dubbed old fashioned and not up-to-date. Poor patient mothers with daughters in their teens. Have you learned just how long a minute means?

The fellows who complain about being trodden under foot are probably those who occupy aisle seats.

PROBLEM IN PASSING.

We meet!
I step aside to pass.
But so do you. Alas,
We meet again.

We grin!
Our thoughts collect,
And you reflect
My sheepish grin.

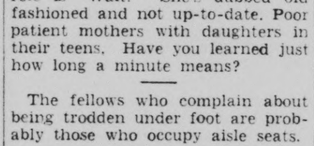

We start!
You zig to right,
I zag to left;
We're back again.

We dodge!
We feint, we duck,
We parry, worse luck,
We're stuck again.

Does this go on and on?
But, no!
We pass!
To right you lunge,
To right I plunge,
And now we pass,
Thank Heaven!

English Editor Forecasts At Wrong Time
Says Harriman Has Eye On British Assets
Believes America Will Corral World Trade

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Was W. Averell Harriman sent by Uncle Sam to London as a kind of sheriff's officer, assigned to keep an eye on John Bull's assets, with a view to levying on 'em directly after the war in satisfaction of Britain's indebtedness to the United States for the aid we're extending to the embattled monarchy just now?

Everybody's, an English weekly magazine, intimated as much in a recently published article, from which a few extracts have been cabled to this side of the Atlantic.

William J. Brittain, the article's author, doesn't, to be sure, employ the term "sheriff's officer," but surmises that our representative is a "broker's man," that being the English way of expressing the idea.

The writer remarks that "of course, America just cannot afford to let us lose," but his guess is that American businessmen plan to let the British fight 'emselves to the point of exhaustion, and then, having helped 'em to win by a hair-line margin, to grab the world's trade, before the slightly victorious but completely tuckered-out islanders can get back into competition for it. He isn't certain that Uncle Samuel actually will sell J. Bull out under the hammer to collect his bill, but it IS his opinion that Sammy's scheme is to take John's export markets away from him.

My personal hunch is that the average Englishman will consider Analyst Brittain's forecast exceedingly untimely, at today's stage of the game.

Appreciate Our Aid

Indeed, I think maybe the average of 'em are quite appreciative of what we've been doing for 'em up to date. They were appreciative of our generally pro-British attitude during the early half of the last war. I was in England at the time and it was obvious. True, they wanted us to come in and when we did so they liked us still better.

But when it was over, we were Uncle Shylock before long.

We didn't raise much hades with English foreign trade following that first world conflict. We could have raised a lot of it, for it had been forced on us while the war was going on, and we could have kept most of it if we'd tried. We were fat-headed enough to let it slide, though, and England got it all back shortly, so the Britons didn't have anything in particular to kick on, on that ground.

They were sore over one thing, however. We entered into 1914 with practically no mercantile marine whatever. The English had done nearly all the ocean carrying. We emerged from 1918 with a pretty fair merchant fleet, created by us because all other cargo boats had been

What Noted People Say

VICHY—Marshal Henri Philippe Petain orders former French government leaders confined in Pourtalet fortress pending public trials on charges of leading the nation into the war:—

"No punishment is severe enough for the men responsible for the disaster of France. I give you (French people) the certitude that if you have been betrayed, you will not be deceived."

NEW YORK—John C. Kelly, assistant director of civilian defense in charge of physical training, seeks to rouse the United States to a program of sport and physical education:—

"Wake up America. What good is a brain without chassis?"

LONDON—Arthur Cardinal Hinsley, archbishop of Westminster and Catholic primate of Britain, calls for a "totalitarianism of love throughout the world" and comments:—

"Better death a thousand times than a life of terror under the savagery of men who discard even humanity."

CHICAGO—Walter D. Binger, special engineering consultant to Secretary of War Stimson, observes:—

"American building design and construction practices are so superior that our cities would withstand blasts and fires rather admirably."

HAPPIGRAMS

by ERICH BRANDEIS

You may have read of the recent marriage of a well-known young member of New York's cafe society and a great-great-grandson of one of America's wealthiest railroad builders.

They eloped to Charleston, S. C., found themselves a minister used a bottle-opener for a wedding ring and returned to New York.

The morning after their return the bridegroom was awakened by detectives, arrested and held in bail for passing "rubber" checks.

Their honeymoon was spent in various night-clubs, where they regaled their friends with the hilarious story of their bottle-opener wedding and had themselves photographed with their marriage certificate.

For some marriages a bottle-opener is the appropriate symbol. The marriage lasts just as long as there is a drop in the bottle.

When the bottle is empty so is their married life.

Attack On Mr. Arnold

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.

AN example of the arrogance which has been bred among the leaders of organized labor by eight years of White House coddling is furnished by the ferocity with which the AFL management assails Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnolds. Its avowed purpose is to force his removal as head of the Justice Department's anti-trust division.

THE open nature of the attack and the impossibility of justifying it make it most unlikely that any damage to Mr. Arnold will result. If and when he leaves the department, it likely will be of his own volition and there will be no doubt about why. Nevertheless, there ought to be a clear understanding of the reasons he suddenly has become the target for the union-labor fire. And there ought to be support for him not only in the White House and at the head of his own department but among the people generally.

ACTUALLY, the situation should increase considerably public esteem for Mr. Arnold, in that it reveals him as one Administration official with the idea that the laws of the country should apply impartially to all classes of citizens and not be administered solely in the interests of one class. It also reveals him as not afraid to say so. Apparently Mr. Arnold's crime consists in the fact that, despite the ruling of the Supreme Court that labor organizations are immune to anti-trust-law

BIRTHDAYS of FAMOUS AMERICANS

(Compiled by Encyclopaedia Britannica)

OCTOBER 18

1787—Robert Livingston Stevens, mechanical engineer, at New York City. He was a famous designer of steamboats and the first president of the pioneer Camden and Amboy Railroad. He designed the "T" rail, and was the first to use cross ties with broken stone and gravel as ballast for a roadbed. He designed the famous "John Bull" locomotive, which is now in the Smithsonian Institution.

1831—Helen Maria Jackson (Helen Hunt), poet and novelist, at Amherst, Mass. She was a prolific writer of prose and verse, including juvenile tales, books of travel, household hints and novels. She is remembered primarily, however, for her efforts in behalf of the Indians. "A Century of Dishonor" was an arraignment of the treatment of the Indians by the United States. One of her novels was "Ramona," which presents a romantic picture of the old patriarchal life in California.

1844—Harvey Washington Wiley, chemist, at Kent, Ind. After serving as professor of chemistry at Purdue university, he was appointed in 1883 chief of the bureau of chemistry in the U. S. department of agriculture. He was the chief force behind the passage of the Pure Foods and Drugs act in 1906, and devoted his energies to its enforcement. He resigned in 1912 and became professor of agricultural chemistry at George Washington university.

"CANNED BUGLER" FOUND IN CAMPS

(International News Service)

DENVER — In these days of streamlining, that once ominous young man who was berated morning, evening and in-between times, appears well on his way toward becoming the forgotten man of the United States Army.

The bugler, sour notes and all, has given way to a powerful public address system installed on the hospital water tower. A phonograph connected with the system has been placed in one of the nearby buildings. A record of every one of the bugle calls used by the army, made by one of the best buglers in the country, is on file near the phonograph.

In actual warfare, of course, a little brass bugle is more convenient for signaling charge or retreat when compared with a phonograph and loud speaker.

Soggy Gridiron For Tech-Irish

Rain Turns Pit t Stadium Into Soggy Mass For Game This Afternoon

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18.—A light but steady rain turned the sod at Pitt stadium into a soggy mass today as Notre Dame took the field against the weakest Carnegie Tech team that has ever faced the vaunted Irishmen since inception of their series in 1922.

Coach Frank Leahy, making his first appearance locally, decided to take no chances with the Scotsmen, however, and ordered his first string into action at the kickoff. Tech, weakened by deflation and split with injuries, started four sophomores in the backfield.

Some 30,000 fans were expected to watch the contest, which marked the 15th annual homecoming day for the Tartans.

Landon Charges Defense Programs Are Failure

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 18—Using language as vigorous as he ever employed in a campaign, Alfred M. Landon today went on record with charges that the defense programs is an "alarming failure" and that "a little group of dominant New Dealers" seek a collective state.

"A little group of dominant New Dealers are using national defense as a smoke screen to eliminate the small business men, concentrating power in a few hands," the former Republican presidential candidate declared in a radio address last night.

"After that," he continued, "they figure it will be comparatively easy, using again the slogan "hate economic royalists,' to insure the permanent establishment of a collective state.

"Out of this war, regardless of what our part in it may be, this little group of New Dealers hopes to establish, beyond repeal, their collective state.

"It makes no difference to these New Dealers if men employed by small business are thrown out of work and compelled to rely on the cold comfort of public aid. This only increases the number dependent on the state, and thus makes easier the establishment of the new world order."

Landon declared that the New Dealers to whom he referred consider the small business man is an "economic anachronism" whose day is past, and that "they are working hand in hand with big business to make their words a reality."

City Boys To Be In 'Fitness' Marathon

Bridenbaugh And Klee Handling High School Plans, Prof. Orth Says

Arrangements for handling the Cross State Physical Fitness Run of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association here November 1 and 2 are being made here, Principal Frank L. Orth of Senior high school announced this morning.

He said Head Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh and Track Coach William L. Klee are jointly planning to greet the marathon runners—there'll be 1,300 runners, but none will run more than half a mile—here. The cross-state event from Erie to Philadelphia will halt here for a week-end.

Pittsburgh officials yesterday announced that they will appropriately escort the runners from New Castle to Pittsburgh. Here the Greater New Castle Association will participate in a manner being developed.

Several New Castle runners, between 16 and 19 years of age, will be entered, Orth said.

otherwise engaged for four years, and we had to have our own to move our exports.

The Armistice, though, released all England's bottoms and their owners immediately wanted our shippers' patronage back again. They took the position that they once more had whatever craft were necessary, and that, if we had cargoes to transport, we ought to pay the freight to THEM. Virtually they said we had no RIGHT to a peacetime fleet.

That and Uncle Shylockery made plenty of Anglo-American ill feeling for quite awhile.

Tactless But Right

Now, at the current war's end, aren't our exporters going to be more alert to keep their foreign business going than they were before? It looks pretty likely and Editor Brittain of Everybody's senses it. It was darned undiplomatic of him to mention it at the present juncture, but I'd offer handsome odds that there'll be a heck of an English chorus of it, if things work out that way.

I've endeavored to draw a distinction between the English and the British.

I don't anticipate that Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa will be so violently mad at us if we permanently annex a formidable gob of their parent island's export trade. They're not in competition with our industries as industrial England is, but as a spokesman for England itself, I'm gambling that Editor Brittain expressed himself post-war prophetically, though unquestionably he picked as punk a moment for doing it as he could have hit on.

There are only three counties in the state of Delaware.

The Great Game Of Politics

prosecutions, he has expressed the view that they should not be. In addition, Mr. Arnold has opposed various illegal labor practices clearly against the public welfare and entirely indefensible. It is a significant fact that this opposition has diminished his popularity among the New Dealers.

IN a recent Boston speech Mr. Arnold asserted that for ten months "powerful groups of both capital and labor" have been hampering defense production. He listed among the things against which the full force of the anti-trust laws should be used "concerted attempts on the part of basic industries to impede expansion which will interfere with their domination after the war, the freezing out of independent businessmen and the refusal of labor monopolies to remove the restrictions which now interfere with full production and restraints of trade in the distribution of the necessities of life by local groups."

IT will be noted that Mr. Arnold's indictment of selfish interests among businessmen at least was quite as severe as his indictment of the selfish local labor monopolies, of which, by the way, the evidence is overwhelmingly convincing. The mere fact, however that he dared to include these local labor monopolies as partly responsible for the defense delays enraged the professional labor heads, and a "drive" to eliminate him from public life is on. Far from being removed from his office, as is now demanded, Mr. Arnold ought to be promoted and congratulated by his superiors. He will not be thus treated, because he has in one way and aonther offended by his forthright methods and outspoken comments some of the more influential of the well-known "inner circle.' If there were more foundation for the charges against him and he were a little less able to take care of himself, these might use the present incident to his disadvantage. As things are they are rather powerless to do anything.

AT any rate, he deserves the thanks of the people generally, because, so far as the record shows, he is the only man connected with the administration who in eight years has had the temerity openly to reproach organized labor for its abuse of power and violations of law even when, as in the sit-down strikes of 1935, the abuse was clear and the violation beyond dispute. Recent developments have compelled the President to appeal to labor for cooperation and deplore the consequences of the defense strikes which continue week after week. But Mr. Arnold's is the only voice raised in reprimand and censure. Even though he also censured industry, he was in striking contrast to Under Secretary of War Patterson, with his "profoundly gratified" Labor Day telegrams, and all the other administration spokesmen, high and low.

AND for thus putting some of the blame upon the labor leaders, where a great deal of it belongs, he is accused and denounced by these labor leaders as an enemy of unions and his dismissal is demanded. Mr. Arnold is an able, honest and courageous official. He, of course, has made mistakes, and it is to be regretted that under pressure he permitted his name to be used in the whitewashing statement issued by the department in behalf of that ubiquitous young lobbyist, Mr. Tommy Corcoran. However, in this criticism of the local labor racketeers he has not spoken as an enemy of labor but as its friend. And the decent labor leaders should join him in his effort to end this sabotage of the defense job by the unscrupulous and irresponsible minority in their ranks. Instead of that, they howl for his head.

George Washington once was the intended victim of a kidnaping plot.

BOOTLEG MINERS PLAN PROTEST

Swarm Into Mahanoy City After Clash With State Police

(International News Service)

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., Oct. 18—Bootleg miners, aroused by the forceful closing of a makeshift mine hole by State Motor police who used tear gas to evict its operators, swarmed into this anthracite center today for a protest mass meeting.

More than 30 miners were bruised in the clash between the state police and a throng of 1,000 bootleggers who attempted to halt the closing of an illegal mine working on the land of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company.

Fifty state troopers wielded riot sticks and threw tear gas bombs in evicting the miners inside the bootleg hole and dispersing the throng outside. The police were acting on behalf of the State Anthracite Emergency Committee, composed of representatives of the Commonwealth, Hard Coal Operators and the United Mine Workers of America, with orders to close new bootleg mines.

Learning of the approach of the police, Edward Seader, leader of the miners, sent a telegram to state authorities at Harrisburg protesting against the dynamiting of bootleg holes "until jobs are given us in legitimate operations." Under the plan approved by the Emergency Committee, bootleg miners are to be given jobs by legitimate operators as their makeshift operations are closed in an announced effort by the James administration to wipe out an illegal industry which has flourished for more than a decade.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

"No," was her reply. "We have enough to do to get good citizenship right in class; anyway, I have no faith in words about conduct beyond the classroom."

Here we have the prevailing theory that you can't teach ideals and character with words but only through the immediate situation. If this theory be sound, churches and Sunday schools might as well fold up.

It seems to me that the teacher who gets best citizenship in the classroom is the very one who should be suited best to lead her children to want to apply these principles and patterns of good citizenship outside the classroom.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Of what value is a teething ring?

A. It helps the teething process. Hard rubber or ivory ones are good. Soft objects which encourage sucking are harmful rather than helpful. A good idea also is to let the baby chew on the baked crust of dark bread, hard crackers or a cooked chicken bone with no meat on it or loose parts.

We've got a precision instrument called a "tachometer" on our demonstrators which shows you exactly how Chrysler's power transmission system gets more power out of every gallon.

A Wizard FOR EFFICIENCY

Far more extensive use of Chrysler's famous alloy—Amola steel—greater use of Oilite metals. No "roughed" bearings . . . Chrysler's Superfinish—with aircraft precision—conserves fuel and oil, increases performance, reduces wear.

An Eye-Opener FOR SMOOTHNESS

Smooth in line and smooth in action. Chrysler's now famous Fluid Drive and Vacamatic transmission reach new performance peaks with the new Spitfire engine. You flow from standstill into full action with the fluent smoothness of a gliding swan. Why shift gears?

THERE's a lot that's new . . . there's a lot that's down-right exciting in this new Chrysler. It answers the questions many people have been asking. It answers them in a way we're all glad to see.

It's a car that's built to the tempo of the day—but with an eye to the future. Come in and get acquainted with a truly great car.

Told Plants Hum Doom Of Hitler

Executives Club Audience Hears Dr. Miller, 'Flying Reporter'

RELATES DEFENSE PROGRESS IN NATION

Belief that "the smoke stacks of American industries now are writing the doom of Adolf Hitler" was voiced last night at The Castleton by Dr. Henry Knight Miller speaker and writer of international repute, before the fall dinner meeting of members of the New Castle Executives club and their wives.

Dr. Miller told his audience that Uncle Sam has put aside the mental opium pipe he seems to have been smoking, and now the whole war is very much on his mind.

As to the Far East, Japan's navy, Dr. Miller said, "offers no match for ours," and he would regard Nippon's entry ito war with the Axis as "national suicide."

"The Japanese cities, with their tinder-box structures, are pathetically vulnerable to attack by air," the speaker reminded.

Dr. Miller, the "flying reporter," recently surveyed actual labor and production conditions throughout defense industry centers for the Associated Executives Clubs, Inc., with which the local club is affiliated.

Scores Strikes

In his address he scored defense plant strikes and said "the day is not far off when we must take a firm and decided stand on that problem." He obserevd that a soldier in uniform, in camp, would get scant sympathy should he throw down his gun and walk off.

First he pictured the dark side and then the bright side of the defense preparations, and he predicted that "the arsenal of democracy" in 1942 will be functioning more like it should and not as it has been in past months.

Dr. Miller said big business "just can't handle all the defense orders, and said small manufacturers must get more of the war orders.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, president of Westminster college. Attorney William J. Caldwell, club president, presided.

Three 1941-42 directors chosen last night by the club were Orville Potter and Roy M. Jamison, of New Castle, and W. Fillmore Campbell, of New Wilmington. With the six present directors, they will select officers within a few days.

Speaker for the November 18 dinner of the clubmen and their wives will be Carveth Wells, nationally known orator.

Pittsburgh Man Given Reprieve

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 18.—Herman Petrillo, ringleader of the notorious Philadelphia "murder-for-insurance" ring which specialized in premeditated slayings, will go the "last mile" alone, as Gov. Arthur H. James today reprieved from the electric chair Willie Jones of Pittsburgh, the second of three men originally slated to be electrocuted Monday morning.

An announcement from the governors office stated that the young Pittsburgh negro had received a respite until November 24, upon recommendation of the state pardons board, to permit an examination of his mental condition.

The third man originally slated to die with Petrillo was reprieved for the same reason last Thursday.

Another Strike Threat Is Facing Pittsburgh Now

General Strike Call Of A. F. Of L. May Result From Light Co. Battle

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18—Pittsburgh faced the possibility today of a general strike call among American Federation of Labor union affiliates as an outgrowth of the AFL battle with the Duquesne Light Company.

Among other facilities, the "blackout" would affect transportation and power.

Telegrams asking co-operation of all A. F. L. units were sent out by the Building Trades and Construction Council. James Ahern, who heads the strike committee, said the walkout would be in protest against invasion of the building and construction field by the Duquesne Light Company and other outside organizations.

"We have come to the point where we must have a showdown on this proposition," he said. "Independents and others are barging into the construction field which we have controlled for 50 years."

A. F. L. President William Green, James R. Coyne, chief of the Building Trades and Contruction Council of the A. F. L., and other officials are expected here within a few days to investigate.

Claiming support of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Motor Coach Company employes, the council said "transportation will be cut off the minute the strike goes into effect." Ahearn said the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union, claiming membership of 250,000 in the district, has endorsed the strike proposal.

The council already has struck individual projects where Duquesne Light has been awarded electrical installation and other construction work. The general strike call was indicated as likely in about 10 days.

Jury Exonerates Guards In Shooting Of Butler Youth

Coroner's Inquest Held In Death Of Youth Attempting Escape

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 18.—The two guards whose bullets brought death to Paul Selfridge, 19, of Butler, as he attempted to escape Thursday from the Pennsylvania Industrial School for Boys at suburban White Hill, today held the approval of a coroner's jury which found that they "acted in the line of duty."

"We find that the guard or guards were acting in the line of duty and therefore exonerate the guard or guards of all blame in the death of Selfridge," the six-member jury said.

The two guards, John Hudasky and Bert Baker, were freed by the jury after 30 minutes deliberation. Six witnesses were heard, among them Hudasky, who testified he fired 11 shots from a revolver, shotgun and rifle as Selfridge attempted to climb a wire fence surrounding the institution, and Baker, who said he fired three times.

Selfridge was accompanied on his attempted escape by three other boys, all immediately recaptured. George Clark, 20, of Philadelphia, shot in the hip; Clayton Bird, 20, of Williamsport, shot in the right leg, and Earl Ward, 19, of Philadelphia, who suffered hand lacerations.

Major Henry C. Hill, superintendent of the new $3,000,000 institution, testified that guards had standing orders when inmates were attempting an escape first to shout "halt" several times, then fire into the ground, and finally shoot at their legs.

The jury recommended that a higher fence be placed about the institution and that boys in solitary confinement be allowed to exercise in the courtyard only under guard.

News Briefs From City Hall

Approximately one dozen and a half youths today faced Mayor Charles B. Mayne in boys court, which is a private and unofficial 'institution'. However, if the circumstances so warrant His Honor instructs that charges be preferred against youths. Today's list of infractions ranged from entering automobiles to pre hallowe'ening. Some of the boys were placed on probation and ordered to report at police headquarters at times when the boys absence from play periods will punish them more than a fine.

P. J. Rowland today received a permit from the city bureau of building to build a porch at 618 Superior street, at a cost of $150.00.

J. W. Cartwright, city assessor, reported today practically all personal valuations for 1942 have been completed and he now is engaged in a wind-up of placing valuations on new properties for 1942.

H. L. Goodwill, 110 Hillcrest avenue, reported to city police his auto struck a telephone pole at 5:25 p. m. Friday near Highland and Lincoln avenues.

Police and park watchmen propose to maintain a tight watch for anyone who attempts to hunt in city parks where wild life is protected.

Frank Coen, game protector, informed police here that a shotgun had been stolen from the car of F. Adams, Canonsburg, at Conneaut Lake, Friday, where Adams was hunting ducks. Coen provided police with a description of the suspects.

NEW CASTLE HIGH DEFEATS WASHINGTON 18 TO 6

REGISTER FOURTH CLASS AA TRIUMPH

New Castle High "Red Hurricane" Impressive In Win Over Fine Washington High Eleven Friday Night; Lee And Stewart Tally Touchdowns; Washington Gives Locals Two Safeties; Campbell High Next Week; Close To 9,000 Sees Battle.

CONTINUING its supremacy in Class AA a hard fighting New Castle High "Red Hurricane" football team defeated a good Washington High eleven last night at Taggart Stadium before a 9,000 crowd by the score of 18 to 6. It was the fourth Class AA win of the season for the locals and the seventh straight of the current season.

New Castle drove to its first touchdown about midway in the first period, after Mike Roussos had blocked and recovered a Washington High kick on the Washington 33-yard line. A penalty on Washington of 15 yards for holding gave New Castle the ball deep in the Washington territory and Lee on a reverse play ran the ball over for the first touchdown Stewart kicked the extra-point. New Castle led 7 to 0.

The first period did not provide any more thrills, the Washington team having the ball on their own 45-yard line as the first period closed.

Pettitt Runs 85 Yards

To start the second period Jeffers of Washington kicked to New Castle out-of-bounds on the New Castle 29 yard line. Doster who had been injured in the first period returned to the game and replaced Currie. Doster ran the ball and was injured again and taken out in place of Currie. Two New Castle plays failed and Lee kicked to the visitors on Washington 33.

A pass by Washington and a 15-yard penalty against New Castle gave Washington the ball deep in New Castle territory and New Castle finally took the ball on downs on their own 17-yard line.

Neither team could do much ground gaining until just before the first-half ended. New Castle started from the New Castle 49 after taking a kick from Warnick and started a march down the field that ended on the Washington 15-yard line. With just ten-seconds left in the first half Lee elected to pass and Pettit the Washington right-guard grabbed the ball out of the air and sped 85 yards for the lone Washington tally.

Warnick tried the extra-point but failed to plunge it over. The first-half ended before the teams could get lined up for the kickoff. New Castle led 7 to 6.

New Castle Drive Stopped

New Castle had a touchdown in mind as the third period opened. Rose kicked off to Lee and the colored boy took the kick deep in the end-zone and raced it to the 22 yard line before being dragged down. New Castle began a steady drive down the field at this point. New Castle got as far as the Washington 7-yard line on a series of steady runs by Lee and Stewart and then Currie from the Washington 7-yard line lost about 12 yards and finally New Castle gave up the ball on downs on the Washington 19 yard line.

After Washington had tried several plays and failed Warnick punted to New Castle, Lee taking the ball on his own 37 and coming back to the New Castle 47 before being downed. New Castle began another steady march down the field with Stewart, Lee and Currie carrying the mail, and reached the Washington eight-yard line as the third period ended. New Castle 7—Washington 6.

Score 11 Points

On the opening play of the fourth period Stewart raced the ball to the Washington 2-yard line, on third down. On the next try Stewart was about one-foot shy of a touchdown and New Castle gave up the ball on downs on the one-foot line. Rose tried to run the ball instead of punting and was downed back of the Washington goal line for a safety. New Castle 9-Washington 6. Washington kicked to New Castle from their own 20 after the safety. Currie took the ball on his own 35 and returned it to the Washington 43 a run of 25 yards before being brought down.

New Castle began another touchdown drive and completed it this time with Bobby Stewart going over from the half-yard line after Lee had raced to the 14 and a Washington penalty for too many time outs had put the ball deep in the shadows of the goal line. Stewart plunged the ball over for the extra-point making it New Castle 16—Washington 6.

Gunn kicked off to Washington following the touchdown by Stewart and Hall took the ball and was down on the Washington 21 yard line. A penalty half the distance to the goal line for unnecessary roughness, put the ball on the Washington 7-yard line and on the next play Hall lost four yards and on the next play Hall tried to run the ball from behind his own goal line and was downed by Scarazzo for the second safety. New Castle 18—Washington 6.

Doster-Peters Injured

The ball was put in play again on the Washington 20 with the visitors kicking off. New Castle started another touchdown drive late in the period but it ended with New Castle giving up the ball on the Washington 12 yard line. The game ended with the Washington team trying desperately to tally on forward passes but they could not complete any of them.

In the first down department New Castle had 17 and Washington 3.

New Castle may be without the services of Bobby Doster next week, the young colored halfback having suffered a painful injury in the game last night. Peters also came out of the game nursing a badly swollen jaw.

Washington had a fine team and one that will win a lot of games, but New Castle was just too alert last night and had too much stuff for the "Little Presidents."

Campbell Memorial High will be here next Friday night for a battle.

Line Plays Fine Game

Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh stated today that Doster had sustained a hip injury and that Peters had suffered a badly swollen jaw as the result of a kick in a scrimmage pileup.

New Castle High played headsup ball all the way and had a good Washington team worried most of the time. Lee and Stewart did a swell job of ground gaining for New Castle while Scarazzo and Zubkowsky along with Masters and Gunn played beautifully on the line. In fact the whole New Castle line was splendid last night.

For the Washington team, Jeffers, Hall, Rockwell and Bakatis did a lot of fine footballing.

Union Gridders Tie Zelienople

Visitors Score In Final Quarter To Earn 6-6 Deadlock On Friday

Union Township high's game eleven battled a strong Zelienople aggregation to a 6-6 tie, Friday afternoon on Union field.

After a scoreless first period, the Scotland Lane team took possession of the oval on the Zelienople 45. Dudzensky, a substitute, ran 20 yards on the Statue of Liberty play.

Union Scores

From this point, Union played straight football, reaching the Zelienople 3. Jaskolka, fullback, rammed his way over for the local touchdown. The point after touchdown kick failed.

As the schoolboys left for the intermission period, the Scotland Lane horde sported a 6-0 margin that looked as big as a mountain. Play was even during the scoreless third stanza.

In the fourth, Zelienople took possession on its 35. With Lutz and Getsay taking turns at lugging the ball, the visitors drove to the Union 2. Lutz plunged over for what turned out to be the game tying touchdown. Zelienople attempted a drop kick for the extra point but was unsuccessful.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Saturday sports cocktail:

E. M., the column's ace downtown informant, scores again. We're told that Mose Mancine, one of New Castle's most finished golfers, recently received a screen test in Hollywood. Mancine, a slick looking article (Tyrone Power type) standing well over six feet tall and blessed with one of those magazine cover physiques, will land in the movies if the test is O. K.

Mancine deserted the local sports scene several months ago. Arriving in the make believe land, Mancine immediately started studying dramatics, at the request of his good friend, Robert Sterling, William Hart to his New Castle friends. Sterling's impetus resulted in the hard to get screen test. Mancine has been living with Sterling, according to our informant.

George Chip, Jr., is in Baltimore today to witness the Cornell-Navy game and to spend a few hours with his brother, William C. Chip, the Middies' signal barker on the varsity club. . . . William Ciccone, the ex-New Castle high-West Virginia Wesleyan star gridder, has won a starting line post with the Columbus pro team. He'll see action against Tommy Harmon and John Kimbrough, Sunday in Yankee stadium.

The Army-Notre Dame game, booked for spacious Yankee stadium on Saturday, November 1, is a sell out. . . . A team to watch in 1942: West Virginia university. This season's varsity will be intact come the next pigskin pageant, barring unforeseen accidents, ineligibilities, etc. . . . Up to this "p. m." Colgate had yet to score against the vaunted Duke eleven in five seasons.

Jake Webster, Texas A. & M., point after touchdown kicker extraordinary, hadn't missed a conversion this season, up to today. He split the "H" 14 times in a row. . . . While the American Bowling Congress classic is still many months away, some 3,780 entries have already been received. The event will be held in Columbus next year.

Many localites plan witnessing the Massillon-Warren high game billed for Warren on October 31. . . . Tom Kuzma, Michigan's ace, stars in three sports football, baseball and in track. . . . One reason why New York Giants didn't finish higher than fifth the past season: The Jinx left 1,111 men stranded on the basepaths.

Bands Make Hit At Grid Battle

Miss Christina Giancotti Does Clever Job Of Baton Twirling At Game

The some 9,000 or more fans who witnessed the New Castle-Washington football game last night also saw two very fine high school bands and some very clever baton twirling by Miss Christina Giancotti of the New Castle High band.

Washington sent a band of 80 pieces here under the supervision of Paul E. Harding, and they did a right smart job of letter forming on the field between halves.

After the Washington band had completed its fine display, the New Castle band under Professor Joe Replogle then took the field and formed various letters and in conclusion Miss Giancotti put on her baton and flag twirling act that had the fans spellbound and applauding lustily, when she had finished. She missed a few times, but that was excuseable owing to the large crowd and the fact that the very lovely young lady was quite nervous.

Hillsville And Ellwood City Teams Seeks Lawrence Loop Flag

EACH TEAM HAS WON TWO GAMES

Championship of the Lawrence County Baseball league for the season of 1941 will be decided Sunday afternoon in Ewing park, Ellwood City. The game will be called at 3 p. m. between Hillsville and Ellwood City, each team having captured two games. Both managers promise to present the strongest lineup they can muster.

Ellwood City got into the pennant fight by winning the first half and Hillsville came along to capture the second half.

Because of industrial conditions both teams have had a difficult time mustering sufficient players for the series.

Hillsville will start Ammons on the mound and Ellwood City will start either Greco, Ferrante, McCready or Beatrice.

Ammons beat Ellwood City 5-4 and 4-3, the latter a nine-inning game. Greco beat Hillsville 7-4 and McCready won 4-3.

DOES A CURVE CURVE?

Can a pitcher really throw a curve ball? High speed pictures of the Phillies' Cy Blanton shown in a national mazagine sometime ago displayed that his sinker will drop as it nears the plate, but his curve does not swerve en route to the batter.

Grow food. Store food. Pile up food in limitless quantities. Nothing else will prevent world anarchy whe the war ends.

Everybody should pay his share; but fairness is not in the percentage paid, but in the sum left to live on.

CALIFORNIA LAYS CLAIM TO BIGNESS

(International News Service)

BERKELEY, Calif. — California's latest claim to bigness is its children.

Results of body measurements of 147,000 children from all major geographical divisions of the United States show that California children are on the whole taller and heavier than children in other areas.

This is shown in a study of the bureau of home economics of the U. S. department of agriculture, with the cooperation of research centers in 16 states.

The study in California was conducted by Dr. Harold E. Jones, director of the University of California Institute of Child Welfare.

In England 231,000 persons find employment in laying out and maintaining pleasure gardens in normal times

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

There you were fans . . . . the New Castle High Football teams' 20th straight win . . . . some playing . . . . what will happen from now on this season will be rather difficult to say . . . . but our fingers are still crossed.

Tomorrow a popular couple of the East Side will celebrate their 55th wedding anniversary . . . . all of their life time having been spent in New Castle they are true friends of this community . . . . congratulations Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Marshall . . . . this bride and groom live at 221 Crawford Avenue.

* * *

For those who love the carrot or dislike the carrot . . . . oh, well . . . . the following is about a carrot, so what:

O, caterers and chefs, I pray;
Regardless of their merits,
Bring to a close, immediately,
Your lavish use of carrots.

I find them shredded in my soup.
You use them to embellish
The costly steaks you serve to me.
You grate them in your relish

You smother fresh green garden peas
With carrots, cubed and diced.
For salad, you mix gelatin with
Carrots that are sliced.

You serve them baked and boiled and fried
And broiled and raw and stewed.
You doll them up in creamy gear,
You serve them in the nude.

No longer do I dine with joy.
Instead—I grin and bear it,
For well I know that every dish
Will hold some form of carrot.

By L. P. D.

And may we add an Amen . . . . in capital letters AMEN!

Market Recovers Volume Expands

Biggest Saturday In Two Months Reported As 'Blue Chips' Rise

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The stock market recovered further today when gains ran to more than 2 points. Volume expanded also and ran around 300,000 shares, biggest Saturday in 2 months.

Douglas Aircraft, DuPont and J. I. Case were the biggest individual gainers, each rising 2 points or more. Steels were strong. Bethlehem rose over a point and the others gained fractionally.

Chrysler moved up over a point but General Motors was barely higher.

A long list of other stocks advanced a point or more, including Boeing, Consolidated Aircraft, Lockheed, United Aircraft, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, U. S. Gypsum, Eastman Kodak, N. Y. Shipbuilding, U. S. Rubber, American Car & Foundry and Howe Sound.

Coppers, oils and rails were up fractionally. Utilities did little. Westinghouse dropped over a point but regained this later.

Commodities duplicated yesterday's rally but at a slower pace.

The bond market started irregular but firmed up later. While gains outnumbered losses most changes were fractional.

Ellwood High Wins From Midland 13-0

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 18.—After a scoreless first-half in which the Ellwood City High school football team had a mighty big scare thrown into them by a hard fighting Midland High eleven, the Croft-Gills machine came back strong in the second-half to win by a 13-0 score. Played Friday night at Lincoln field, it was the last home night game for the locals.

A crowd of about 4,000 fans witnessed the gridiron struggle, which from the standpoint of thrills and spills was about the most exciting playing here this year.

Ellwood scored first just after the beginning of the half and the second tally followed in the opening of the fourth quarter. Two other times, the locals were within inches of scoring when they lost the ball, the first on a fumble and the second when they were inches short of a first and ten. One "first" was chalked up in the game, and was the first extra point to be scored this year by placement by the Ellwood team. Conti, sophomore fullback, booted the good kick.

First Scoring Opportunity

Ellwood's first scoring opportunity came early in the second canto. O'Nuska's quick kick was partially blocked and recovered by Lordo of Ellwood on Midland's 40. Lordo lateralled to Moskal on the 35 and he raced downfield 35 yards before being hauled down on the 1-yard marker. With only a yard to go and a first and ten, it looked like duck soup for the locals, but on the first snap back from center, Conti fumbled and Bires recovered for the visitors. O'Nuska, who was an expert kicker, got off a beautiful punt for the Steelers and the scoring threat was over. The first-half ended without further scoring threats.

Beginning the second-half the Wolverines settled down to real play and in three plays had their first touchdown. Conti kicked off from his 40 to Midland's 2, and Nott brought the ball up to the 5 before being stopped by Presto. O'Nuska punted from the 5 to the 40 with Moskal making a swell return of the kick to the Midland 20. Midland was penalized for clipping. Conti knifed right tackle for 7 but 5 of them were nullified by an offside penalty.

The next play was a pass from Conti to Houk, who lateralled to Moskal, the latter going into paydirt, and Ellwood was ahead 6-0. Hughes try for the extra point was blocked.

Fumbles Numerous

Altogether Ellwood fumbled six times in the game and Midland twice, with Midland making 6 recoveries while Ellwood was able to get the ball only twice. And the balance of the third quarter was a weird exhibition of one team, then the other losing the ball. Ellwood got the ball down to Midland's 20 when a pass by Moskal was intercepted by Bires. Two plays later, O'Nuska's pass was intercepted by Lordo, who fumbled, Nott recovered the ball in the air, then fumbled, and Hughes finally recovered for Ellwood with the ball on Midland's 30. Conti took the ball to the 10, then Presto fumbled for Ellwood with Katich recovering for the Tigers.

Beginning late in the third hurdle, Ellwood staged a 50-yard drive to score. Shattering Midland's line, Moskal, Conti and Presto took the ball 30 yards in 4 plays. Conti smashed right guard for two more and then Presto in a honey of a play went around right end for 18 yards and victoryland. Conti kicked the extra point and Ellwood was leading 13-0.

Once again, Ellwood had the ball within inches of scoring. After the touchdown kick-off, Nott's pass was intercepted by Lordo for Ellwood on Midland's 40 and he returned the ball to the 27 before being stopped. Moskal in two slashes at right tackle added 18 yards, and a first down. Conti picked up three more through left guard and Ellwood was penalized 15 yards for holding. It was second down and 12 to go. Presto made it third down and 10 to go. Moskal passed to Presto who dropped the ball. On fourth down Conti shot a good 12-yard pass to Clark, but it was two inches short of the end zone, and the scoring opportunity was over. The Ellwood second team finished the game with the only play of any note being a 13-yard gain by Koach on a reverse play.

A check of statistics show that Midland was unable to gain at all through Ellwood's "blocks of granite," gaining only a total of 17 yards in running plays. They tried 22 passes, completing 7 for a total of 36 yards. In O'Nuska they had a beautiful kicker, who booted the ball 10 times for a total of 317 yards.

Play Well

Acting captain, Carl Lordo, and Dudick, left tackle, were a little the best in Ellwood's line and Moskal and Conti were outstanding in the backfield. While Midland had Presto, right half, pretty well bottled up they reckoned without his running mates. Hughes and Cartwright alternated as the blocking back.

Katich, left end, and Bires, center, shared equal honors in Midland's line and were a powerhouse combination in stopping Ellwood's running plays. O'Nuska starred in Midland's backfield.

Bands of the two schools performed at the half and delighted the spectators with their snappy drills. A professional baton twirler, M. V. Velier of Wisconsin gave an expert demonstration at half-time.

Ellwood now has five victories, Union Township, Munhall, Monaca, Rochester and Midland, and one scoreless tie, Butler, to their credit.

Next weeks game with Aliquippa High at the Valley field has been advanced from Friday until Thursday night on account of the teachers convention at New Castle. Aliquippa was defeated for the first time this year last night by Ambridge, who won 20-0.

Should Eradicate Tent Caterpillars

Autumn And Winter Good Time For Elimination Says State Experts

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 18.—The autumn and winter months are an excellent time to eradicate tent caterpillars which make their unsightly appearance in April and May, according to Deputy Secretary, Chas. E. Baer, of the Department of Forests and Waters.

Persons having areas which have been infested with these pests can prevent many of the potential worms from maturing next spring by destroying the characteristic egg masses during the autumn and winter months. The egg masses are very noticeable in the winter as dark colored bands encircle small branches and twigs of broad-leaved trees such as cherry, apple, oak and maple. Each ring contains some 300 to 400 eggs. The eggs hatch into larvae about the time the leaves appear in the spring.

The caterpillars spin webs in the crotches of the trees on which the eggs have been placed. The larvae work out from these webs, devouring the foliage and increasing the size of the webs as they develop. Worthless fire cherry and apple trees whose branches may be covered with thousands of eggs should be cut down and burned.

Mr. Baer states that the department will identify egg masses of these pests for persons who send samples to the Harrisburg Office.

Recalls Having Helped To Build Covered Bridge

John T. Carpenter, who resides with his daughter, Miss Adah Carpenter at 209 Dickson street, in reminiscing the covered bridges as he remembered them, recalls vividly one he helped to build in '82, known as Old Cleland Mill bridge, situated on the Hickory creek, on the outskirts of Mahoningtown.

Mr. Carpenter, who was born December 4, 1849, while not too active physically, keeps a similing countenance as he relates an interesting story to a reporter, telling of his experiences in building this bridge.

"It wasn't very large, but the foundation was made of solid stone, and wooden braces and beams were used for supports. "J. N. Emery, Lyle Emery and myself would start work at 8 o'clock in the morning and finish up at 5 in the afternoon, for the sum of $2.25 per day. A good many horses and buggies tramped over that little bridge, I'll tell you. It was made wide enough to permit two buck carriages to pass. The bridge was started just before the harvest season, and the three of us continued to work daily, and completed it soon after July 4. Commissioners at that time were the late Robert Mehard, Robert Patterson and Alexander Wright," Mr. Carpenter stated. "Makes one wonder," he mused, "just how we old folks lived in those days, without automobile, the telephone, and the many other modern conveniences, when you look back. When we had a message to deliver, we used horses.

"Another bridge which I recall when I first came to New Castle was the covered bridge on Pittsburgh street, the main avenue. It was wide enough for pedestrians to travel over one side. Cattle were driven over the other half, when they 'herded' them from Erie to Pittsburgh.

"Time passes quickly—I keep up with the changes in The News. I couldn't get along without it, for it is my one daily pleasure. Yes, indeed; I am a devoted reader of the local sheet, known as the "Lawrence Journal" when I came to New Castle. I'm mighty glad to get it, read it thoroughly, and I still maintain, it is one of the finest papers I ever read."

He recalled vast changes of meadows being transformed into streets in contrasting New Castle of yesterday and that of today, Mr. Carpenter concluded in passing a poke filled with old-fashioned candy-striped peppermints. "Here, have a handful of these," he told the reporter, "they don't change with the times."

PERFECT A NEW TECHNIQUE OF FINGERPRINTING

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore.—Two amateur chemists of Portland, one a policeman and the other an engineer, recently created a sensation among criminal identification experts when they demonstrated a new technique by which they successfully obtained fingerprints from human flesh.

The technique, that may be of inestimable value to police in tracking down murderers and assaulters, was discovered only after the two spent their spare time for seven years in their home-made laboratory.

On hundreds of nights the two, Captain Orvle Williams of the traffic patrol and engineer Lloyd H Brown, tinkered with powders and solutions and transparent tape before they hit the right combination.

In addition to taking fingerprints from flesh, the two have succeeded in obtaining prints from silk after a lapse of two days, from cotton cloth after two days and from paper 90 days after it was imprinted.

SAYS HOBOS HAVE LEFT THE ROAD TO JOIN ARMY

(International News Service)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—"The bo's are all off the road," was the statement issued by Jeff Davis, ruler of the International Hobo Kingdom, when he arrived in Indianapolis recently to visit the Journeymen Barbers International Union Convention.

Davis, emperor of a world-wide league of a million and a half knights of the road, said that his organization was 100 per cent behind the force fighting Hitlerism. "Why," he asserted, "more than 200,000 of my boys are in the armies fighting for democracy and another 400,000 are in American defense plants."

Jeff's announcement that all the roads were clear of 'Bo's came more or less as a climax to his own campaign to clear the freight lines of excess baggage in the interest of national defense. The FBI, the A. F. of L., the railways and the general public have complimented King Jeff for his action.

New Castle Exchange club members will hold a dinner meeting in The Castleton Monday evening at 5:30 o'clock. John J. Finnessy Lawrence county Boy Scout executive, will be the speaker.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

A physician must be a good detective on many occasions.

He is called to see an unconscious patient.

He knows nothing of the cause of the person's unconscious state.

To save a life he must speedily learn what happened.

To give proper treatment he must discover the underlying cause.

Is it heart, blood vessels, lungs, spinal cord, or intestines?

It may have been gas, drugs, diabetes, or injury.

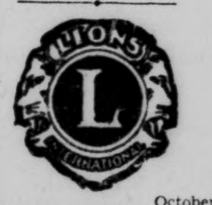

The physician utilizes all his perceptions to find out.

Smell, touch, sight and hearing are called into play.

Perhaps disturbance of the central nervous system is responsible.

He may use artificial respiration, stomach washing or medicines.

Physicians must be smart detectives.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The house on Friday, with less than two days of debate, passed the administration's bill to arm merchant ships and sent it to the senate.

The vote was announced as 259 to 138. In 1917 on a similar measure sought by President Woodrow Wilson, the vote was 403 to 14.

The action came after numerous speeches on the torpedoing of the American destroyer Kearny, the rise to power of a new war government in Japan, and the German threat to Moscow.

President Roosevelt requested the legislation only 10 days ago.

The bill repeals that section of the neutrality act which forbids arming of American merchant ships.

ARMY YOUTH HAS HAD FULL QUOTA OF HARD LUCK

(International News Service)

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La.—Private Carl Rehder of Traer, Ia., and the 136th Medical Regiment, claims the title: "Hard Luck Champion of the U. S. Army."

Since his induction into the Army on April 26, 1941 Rehder has seen more of the base hospital at Camp Claiborne than he has the camp proper.

Here are the reasons for his title: Underwent an operation for removal of a cyst from his eye. Contracted pneumonia, and returned to the hospital. Recovered from pneumonia, he broke his ankle the first week out while playing basketball during a recreation period.

Back in the hospital with his ankle in a cast, Rehder was stricken with appendicitis, and underwent an operation. While regaining consciousness from the apendictomy, he swallowed his tongue and his jaws locked.

Recovering today at the base hospital, "Hard Luck" Rehder, grinning from his bed, said: "I'm anxious to know what it really feels like to be in the army."
